JANUARY PICTURES OF THE MONTH

TWO HEADS ARE BETTER THAN ONE

It seems appropos for the judges to choose photographs in honor of the Roman god, Janus, for whom this month is named. In mythology, Janus is described as having two faces in order to see in two different directions. His main function was to guard the gates and doors. Anyone who owns a cat can appreciate this particular devotion of the feline to entrances and exits. The two Siamese are guardians of the Dorothy Frey home in Buffalo/New York. The other twosome protects John Madill's residence in St. Joseph/Michigan. A most secure New Year to all.
